Car audio presents a really tough challenge: using only a +12V supply, we can't directly create a large power output to use for both factory speakers or upgraded speakers. To help better understand this, we can look at Ohm's law which states that power is related to the resistance of a load (speaker impedance) and the supply voltage. The load resistance must decrease or the voltage must ...

What Does A Car Amplifier Do? The Only Guide You Need

Keyboard amplifiers are not the same as electric guitar or bass amps. The main difference is the frequency response. A keyboard, digital piano, or synthesizer is capable of producing notes that are higher and lower on the sound spectrum than a stringed instrument can achieve. As a result, the loudspeaker needs to be able to reproduce these notes clearly and crisply, and this means a wider ...

Sunn Amplifiers The Sunn Musical Equipment Company's history is about as "American Dream" as it gets. After a Portland-based band had a little hit song called "Louie, Louie" and found their amplifiers couldn't fill larger halls, they enlisted the help of a family member to build them louder amps and thus Sunn was born.

Remember, in order to sound "twice as loud," you need an increase of 10dB, so while a 20W amplifier will sound noticeably louder than a 10W amp, it will not sound twice as loud. The same thing holds true at higher wattages—a 100W amp is not going to sound twice as loud as a 50W amp; assuming identical speakers, it will only be 3 dB louder ...
